

Revised Definition of “Waters of the United States” Public Meeting

August 23, 2021

Introductions

- Brian Frazer, Director of the Oceans, Wetlands, and Communities Division, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
- Russ Kaiser, Chief of the Program Development and Jurisdiction Branch, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
- Stacey Jensen, Assistant for Regulatory and Tribal Affairs in the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Civil Works)

“Waters of the United States” and the Clean Water Act

- “Waters of the United States” (WOTUS) is a threshold term in the Clean Water Act that establishes the geographic scope of federal jurisdiction under the Act.
- Clean Water Act regulatory programs address “navigable waters,” defined in the statute as “the waters of the United States, including the territorial seas.”
- The Clean Water Act does not define WOTUS; Congress left further clarification to the agencies.

Previous “WOTUS” Definitions

- The EPA and the Department of the Army have defined WOTUS by regulation since the 1970s.
  - Pre-2015 Practice
  - 2015 Clean Water Rule
  - 2020 Navigable Waters Protection Rule

Executive Order 13990: NWPR Review

- Executive Order on Protecting Public Health and the Environment and Restoring Science to Tackle the Climate Crisis (January 20, 2021)
- Directs federal agencies to review recent regulations, including the NWPR
- Identifies science, the environment, climate change, and environmental justice, among others, as issues to consider
- On June 9, 2021, EPA and the Army announced their intention to revise the definition of “waters of the United States”

New Rulemaking Process

- Two new rulemakings
  - Rule 1: Restore pre-2015 regulations, amended to be consistent with Supreme Court decisions
  - Rule 2: Build upon that regulatory foundation with the benefit of additional stakeholder engagement
- Process considerations
  - Protecting water resources and our communities consistent with the Clean Water Act
  - Considering the direction in the Executive Order
  - Recognizing the importance of practical implementation
  - Reflecting the experience of, and input received from, landowners, the agricultural community, states, tribes, local governments, community organizations, environmental groups, and communities with environmental justice concerns
