All wells in the AoR were drilled for the purpose of hydrocarbon exploration and production. There have been no undocumented historical wells found in the AoR.

The information for the wells in the AoR was determined and confirmed with the following public sources in conjunction with internal databases-
CALGEM Wellstar: <https://wellstar.conservation.ca.gov>
CALGEM Wellfinder: <https://maps.conservation.ca.gov/doggr/wellfinder>

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the research and the objectives of the study. It then proceeds to a literature review, followed by a description of the methodology used. The results of the study are presented in the next section, followed by a discussion of the findings and their implications. The paper concludes with a summary of the main points and a list of references.

The research was conducted in a laboratory setting, using a sample of 100 participants. The data was collected over a period of six months. The results show that there is a significant correlation between the variables studied. This finding has important implications for the field of research.

The methodology used in this study was a combination of qualitative and quantitative methods. This approach allowed for a more comprehensive understanding of the research topic. The data was analyzed using statistical software, and the results were presented in a clear and concise manner.

The findings of the study suggest that there is a need for further research in this area. The implications of the findings are discussed in detail, and the authors provide recommendations for future studies. The paper is well-written and easy to read, making it a valuable resource for researchers and students alike.
